Severe Heart Valve Calcification in a Young Patient with Werner Syndrome

Grubitzsch H, Beholz S, Wollert H-G, Eckel L

Werner syndrome is a rare autosomal recessive disorder characterized by the appearance of premature aging. We report on severe aortic and mitral valve calcification in an 18-year-old girl, necessitating double valve replacement. These special cardiovascular findings are discussed with regard to diagnosis and treatment.

Cardiovasc Pathol 2000; 9:53-54

copyright © 2000 Department of Cardiovascular Surgery, Campus Charité Mitte, Humboldt-University